Del Monte Banquet For Peninsula Inc.

An event which will take its place as the greatest cooperative inter-community affair ever held on Monterey Peninsula will occur next Monday evening when four hundred men and women will banquet and be entertained at the Hotel Del Monte.

The affair is given under the auspices of the recently organized Monterey Peninsula Inc., and is the preliminary to the campaign which begins the day following. This campaign for funds and friends to make the work of the new body effective is to last four days, ending next Friday evening.

"It is difficult," said an official of this new publicity and advertising organization, "for us who are residents of the Monterey Peninsula communities to conceive the scope and glory of the great community dinner that is to be held here."

"Men and women representing every section of our attractive peninsula will break bread and confer together in a common cause—the building of livability to highest degree on the Monterey Peninsula."

Incidentally the program of entertainment and instruction will surpass anything that has ever occurred in this locality.

Dr. B. M. Rastall, managing director of California Inc., will be one of the speakers from the state's northern metropolis to journey to Monterey in the interest of our present great civic project. He will tell of definite results to be derived by intelligent publicizing such as is proposed by Monterey Peninsula Inc.

As this is the first community to fall into step with the efforts of Californians Inc., Dr. Rastall has expressed himself as being keenly interested in our new progressive movement.

The campaign committee is assured of four numbers of the best entertaining talent in a musical and dancing way.

Carmel Martin, a director of the organization, will be chairman of the evening. David Schwartz, chairman of the arrangement committee, promises laughter and an intellectual feast in the speaking program.

Reservations may be made by purchasing tickets at Pine Inn and at the Pine Cone office. The charge will be $1.50 per plate. The affair is informal; evening dress is taboo.

Work has begun on the work of beautifying the park space on Ocean avenue.

Kismet for Hassan is Final Word for Forest Theater Play

KISMET, Edward Knoblauch's successful and popular three-act play, which has been running for a long time in the jocund days of the Thousand and One Nights—will be Forest Theater Society's principal attraction this summer.

This announcement has been hanging fire for several weeks, as negotiations have been pending with the English agents who have the handling of the late James Elroy Flecker's poetic drama, "Hassan," which was the original choice for the summer play. When "Hassan" was chosen by the directorate, negotiations were at once entered into with the London agents who hold the rights to Flecker's play. At that time the agents had not disposed of the American rights to the play, and in the preliminary correspondence it looked as if there would be no bar to "Hassan's" being produced here. But in the midst of these negotiations a New York theatrical magnate suddenly purchased the American dramatic rights, and this producer utterly refused to grant production rights to the Forest Theater.

On the chance of a contingency of this kind arising, John Hilliard, this year's producer, had already secured the rights to "Kismet." This play was chosen for the reason that if "Hassan" was not available at the last moment, the change in plans would not affect the work already done on the costumes and on the construction of the stage.

"Kismet" like "Hassan" is a drama of old Bagdad. The stage planned for the one will be used for the other. The scenes of the two plays are almost as like as peas in a pod. Many of the characters in the Flecker play are also to be found in "Kismet."

There is nothing remarkable about this similarity when it is remembered that both authors went to the same source for the material of their plays. This source is the immortal "Book of the Thousand and One Nights."

"Kismet" was produced in England by Oscar Asche, and has been running there for the last decade. It was done in this country with Otis Skinner in the role of Hajj the Beggar of Bagdad, who, in the course of a single day is raised from rags to the purple of power and then as suddenly is cast down into poverty again.

Both in this country and in England "Kismet" has been one of the biggest dramatic triumphs of the last decade. It is a gorgeous Oriental spectacle, and as such will lend itself admirably to outdoor production. Mr. Hilliard has been working for the last month on the main script of "Kismet," adapting it for use on the outdoor stage, and the play is now ready to be put into the hands of the players. Hilliard expects to begin rehearsals of certain scenes the first of next week. The stage, in charge of Dr. A. E. Burton and Austin James, is rapidly assuming the proportions and picturesqueness of old Bagdad, and it is expected that the set will be fairly complete by the first of June.

The producer has requested that announcement be made that assistance will be greatly appreciated. Dr. Burton needs helpers on the stage. Mrs. Rhoda Johnson and Miss Helena Conger are much in need of volunteer help in costume making. Mr. Hilliard will also welcome volunteers to take part in the play. The cast is not completed, but will require forty to fifty men and women to make up the ensemble scenes. The street scenes in "Kismet" are very important and will need a large cast of volunteers.

Mrs. Johnson and Miss Conger state that beginning next Monday they will be at Arts and Crafts Hall, Casanova street, at 1:30 p. m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. They will meet there all who donate their services to the making of costumes.

Young Monterey Artist Returns From Europe

Myron K. Oliver, young artist, son of J. K. Oliver of Monterey, is back on the peninsula after an absence of four years. During this period Oliver spent a year and a half in the study of art in the east. He has been an exhibitor at many large exhibitions. Two years were devoted to study in England, France and Italy. His wife, also an artist, accompanied him on much of his travels, part of which was done in a Ford camioette, an ideal method for getting away from the beaten track.

Mrs. Oliver returned to her mother in Los Angeles last November and Myron returned to find a husky young son, two months old. He intends to bring his family to Monterey and will make his home there permanently.

"Kismet" at the Forest Theatre on July 2, 3, 4 and 5. Tell the world.

Perry Newberry in Reminiscent Mood

The literary section of the San Jose Woman's Club gave an interesting session last Saturday, and among those who went up to take part was Perry Newberry, who with characteristic humor spoke of "Bohemian Days in San Francisco," giving graphic glimpses of the life of Jack London, Gelett Burgess, George Sterling, Wallace Irwin, Charles Peters, Maynard Dixon and others who gathered at a little cafe.

Incidents of a visit of Bill Nye to this group of writers also added color to the amusing story of San Francisco twenty-five years ago.

Leda Gregory Jackson was soloist of the afternoon, singing selections from the "Beggars of Bagdad," by Newberry and Thomas V. Cator.

John B. Jordan took a trip down to the Big Sur on Thursday to give highway work the once-over.

Bank of Carmel An Assured Fact

All the details for the establishment of The Bank of Carmel are complete. The new establishment will be open for business in about sixty days.

This week property was purchased on Ocean avenue for the stone building to house the business.

The board of directors has not yet been selected, but when organization is complete a majority of the directors will be Carmel residents.

The stock of the bank is fully subscribed and the incorporators plan to maintain both commercial and savings departments. It will be a home bank; its employees will reside here and such work as the bank has to have done will be given to local people. Local loans will be a specialty, and such accommodations as a bank usually affords will be available.

Pavloska Coming to Forest Theater

The date for the Pavloska concert at the Forest Theatre has been set. It will take place on Monday evening, June 4.

Madam Irene Pavloska of the Chicago opera company sang here at Arts and Crafts Hall about a year ago, and so charmed were those who heard her on that occasion that when the program was being made up for the Artists' Concert Series request was made that she be invited to again appear here.

It will be a new experience for this talented artist to sing in the open air, but she is quite keen on it.

About two hundred and fifty season tickets for the series of four concerts were sold, so that there is an assured audience of approximately that number. Seven hundred tickets for single admissions will shortly be placed on sale, and it is confidently expected that a thousand persons will attend the June concert.

Forest Hill School Gives Outdoor Play

On Saturday last, preliminary to Monday's opening of the summer session of Forest Hill school, conducted by Mrs. Minna Steel Harper and Miss Mabel Spicker, the pupils gave an outdoor performance of two plays—"Baucis and Philemon" and scenes from "Hiawatha." They gave a very creditable performance. Those who enacted the various roles were Adelaide Swazey, Helen Wilson, Billy Argo, Kathleen Rostrom, Leon Wilson, Bobby Cone, Richard Rostrom and Bobby DeYoe.

Down From Oakland All in One Bunch

There will arrive today a week-end party of at least sixty young people from Oakland, under the wing of Ralph Arnot. They will have accommodations at Pine Inn.

This same party was here last year and crowded a great deal of pleasure into their short stay. They motored, rode horseback, swam and danced. They will do the same this time—the dance being scheduled for tonight at Pine Inn.

It is interesting to note that as a result of last year's visit several pieces of Carmel property were acquired.

At an informal meeting of the local Chamber of Commerce on Thursday evening, the principal matters discussed were street improvements, business licenses and retail credits.

'Nutty' Notes From the Netherlands

Paris, April 18, 1923.

Dear Carmel and Carmelites:

Is you or is you ain't? Have I just dreamed you, or are you really there nestled lovingly beside the golden sea? Yesterday I received a Pine Cone and it brings calming memories to the whirl of the present and I am moved to intrude the Pine Nut once more into your peaceful (?) lives.

I wonder are you still loving and hating? Was Carpenter street closed? Are the chickens still confined to their own backyards?

So many things have I to tell you, but where shall I start? My letter will be rambling and incoherent, for this European life is hectic and confused. May I just hit a few of the high lights here and there and trust you to read something between the lines?

My longest stop thus far has been at Amsterdam. It is a city of waiters, canals, bicycles and ladders. The chief industry seems to be extracting minute particles of dust from light fixtures, rugs, roofs and gardens. Two husky women get hold of a small rug that can't protect itself, then they go out on the main thoroughfare and shake it for half an hour. You stand and gape and wonder why they're doing it for no dust is to be seen. But it seems to be a part of their religion—they get comfort out of it.

The ladder is, however, the great institution of Holland. They seem to be always cleaning something from the top of them, probably "sweeping the cobwebs out of the sky." I don't mind them being clean—I have leanings that way myself—but I'm superstitious enough to dislike walking under a ladder every time I get out of an elevator.

Speaking of elevators (I mean lifts): Well, the "lift" ascends about twice a day. If you stick around pretty close, and luck is with you, you may get to go up in one. I always walk down though on account of the aforesaid ladder.

You can divide the entire population of Europe into human beings and waiters, for the latter are a sort of sublimated essence of something belonging to the fourth dimension. They are the real aristocrats—at least in their appearance. Most of them have fine, clean-cut features, kindly serious faces, dignified and graceful bearing. They minister to your comfort in every way and are just as happy if you give them a franc (7 cents) as if you give them 10 francs. I'm so impressed with them that if I see a good looking man in the lobby wearing full dress, I'm afraid to smile at him for fear he may be a waiter—and of course that would never do.

My democratic instincts get me into all kinds of trouble. I went out for a joyful afternoon in Rotterdam with a young elevator boy. I took him for 16 and thought I was safe from being gently murdered in a dark alley or, worst of all, robbed. When he told me his life history I learned that he was 32—but I was still safe. Now I'm trying to beguile the chambermaid in this hotel to take me out at night and show me Paris and if I should make a mistake and smile at a waiter that would complete my degradation. But what's life worth if you can't take a sporting chance now and then?

But the power behind the throne in Europe is the hotel porter. The rise and fall of kingdoms may depend on his smile—and he is very chary of them. You can't get your mail, nor catch a train nor get information of any kind from any one but the porter. He is a walking encyclopedia—a court of high jurisdiction. He does everything but make out your bill, and the head waiter does that. The clerk only bows and looks pleasant, but I sort of like him. He is the only one you don't tip.

Amsterdam is really lovely. Tree-shaded canals wind everywhere. Busy thoroughfares open suddenly into little quiet, peaceful court yards. Beautiful old buildings and quaint churches surround the squares and little narrow streets meander gracefully here and there. At this time of the year the country side is very colorful with its gorgeous tulips, hyacinths and daffodils in full bloom—and all laid out in neat, orderly patches.

But the most devilish things here are the bicycles and the railway conductors. The bicycles are everywhere (you are even afraid to go to bed for fear one may run over you). But the conductors (thank God!) are confined to the trains. Everyone rides a bicycle, but only those who can't help themselves ride in the trains. If I'm cut off in my prime, you may lay it to a bicycle rider—a Ford has no terrors for me any longer. The bicyclist creeps up on you quietly and when you decide to turn, so does he—only you never turn in the same direction. Apropos of railway conductors: On the train from Amsterdam to Paris they told me three times (with perfectly serious faces) that the train went straight through, and three times I changed. I don't know yet how I managed to do it. I'd sit in the train until everyone else had gotten out and when some underling would come along and try to forcibly eject me, I'd grab my luggage and wander out in a dazed fashion until I'd spy something that looked like another train; then I'd get into it and say to each person in the car, using the rising inflection, "Paris?" They'd either shake their heads or nod. If a majority nodded, I'd sit down and stay. I'm going to start in a few days for Switzerland to rejoin Tillie, but I'm not sure whether I'll wind up in the heart of Russia or the coast of Spain. It's a great life if you don't weaken.

I mustn't get started talking about Paris or I'll never stop. It is beautiful, majestic. History obtrudes itself on all sides. Victor Hugo and a few others have written of the Cathedral of Notre Dame and the other old landmarks, so I shan't try.

But this much I will say: It's the loneliest place on earth to a person traveling alone. If I could hear Hal Bragg laugh across the Place de la Republique I'd pass out with joy. Yesterday I saw a smile that bore a faint resemblance to Mike Murphy and I'm ashamed to tell you what I did.

Tilly is well and happy, renewing old friendships. She is just as popular at her home in Holland as she is at home in America—and that's saying a good deal. I'm real sore at her though. For three weeks she trained me to say, "Ankenam Kennis tomaken" as my opening greeting to her sister. It means "I am pleased to meet you." Then at the last moment she told me that "lam-meling" meant "dear lady" or some such form of address and that I'd make a better impression if I'd add that. I did—and then wondered why I wasn't popular, until I learned that "lam-meling" meant "scoundrel" or "son of a gun," or something equally vituperative. Don't you think that's a dirty trick to play on a tenderfoot?

Dear people, I'm having a good time but I'm homesick—horribly so. I want to hear John Mikel say, "Hello, Dear," and I want to watch Teddy Gould ramble down the street and I want to run with the sea gulls on the beach. When I get back the first thing I shall do will be to get down on my knees in the middle of the nearest sand dune and reverently thank God that I'm an American—a Californian—and a Carmelite. And that's the truth!

DAISY F. BOSTICK.

Marionette Show Coming to Carmel

Carmel is shortly to have a marionette show. It will be given in Arts and Crafts Hall during the week of May 21, and there will be two performances, including a children's matinee.

Both young and old will thoroughly enjoy the Kegg & Goldsmith four-act marionette version of "Cinderella."

George Kegg and Fannie Goldsmith have made of Perrault's fairy the highest achievement in the marionette art. The puppets used in this performance were carved by Kegg himself, and the music is arranged by Mabel McDonald Kegg.

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE
XXXV.—W. VIRGINIA

A name implies. West Virginia was originally a portion of Virginia, the Old Dominion Colony. While its history is naturally yoked up with that of the Mother State, there are many points in which the two sections of Virginia were divergent and it was for this reason that West Virginia finally became a separate state.

The first white man who probably penetrated the wilderness of this Western region was John Lederer, a German surgeon, who went on a tour of exploration in 1669. In the same year, La Salle sailed up the Ohio and landed at several points in the present state. There was little colonization until 1732, when Scotch and Irish adventurers began to fill Western Virginia. They were encouraged but little, and, in fact, the King in 1763 declared that this part of the colony was Indian country and could not rightfully be settled. Colonization continued, however, and bitter warfare was waged against the Indians and the French who had come down from the North. In 1774 the battle of Ft. Pleasant was fought, which was one of the bloodiest of Indian conflicts.

The backwoodsmen who settled in the Western part of Virginia were entirely different types of men from the wealthy slave owners along the coast. Jealousies between the two sections arose and the Western countries felt great dissatisfaction at the way Virginia was governing them. The most marked point of disagreement was over the slavery question, and it was because of this that, when Virginia seceded from the Union in 1861, West Virginia took matters in its own hands. Delegates met at Wheeling, drew up a separate constitution, and declared their independence. Their application for admission into the Union was accepted by Lincoln, and in 1863 West Virginia became the thirty-fifth state.

It is often called the "Pan-handle State" on account of its shape. Its area is 24,170 square miles, and it has eight presidential electors.

THEIR STORIES CARRY THE ADVERTISING

"Most of it is newspaper talk."

How many times have you heard that remark about some piece of scandal or other "juicy" item you have read in one of the city daily papers?

There is plenty of justification for the remark. It is quite true.

Practically everything of the kind that gets into at least some of the big newspapers is doctored and colored to make it more appealing to the animal side of human nature.

But for this the editors are not alone open to criticism.

It is what the greater part of the public demands.

That reminds us that size and circulation are not the only points of difference between the home town paper and the city daily.

The home town editor must confine himself to facts. If he distorts news matter he is soon classed by the public as a plain prevaricator, and that ends his usefulness in that town.

If the city daily confines itself to facts, without doctoring or coloring of any kind, it is regarded by the vast majority of its readers as too slow for this rapidly moving age. It is a failure, because it is not popular—it is not what its readers want.

THAT'S THE CLASS THE PINE CONE IS IN

Millions of people throughout the United States, as well as those in countries to which American newspapers are mailed regularly, will commend the action of Postmaster General New in undertaking, by official order, to provide for the more expeditious handling of the daily and weekly journals. Mr. New, possibly because he was long engaged in the newspaper business, sees very clearly the importance of delivering this class of mail promptly. He knows that in uncounted homes the arrival of the paper is awaited as anxiously as that of a letter mail, and that failure to receive it regularly is regarded almost as a disaster.

Probably it requires no argument to establish the fact that matter which is entitled to transportation and delivery at a fixed rate lower than that chargeable for another class, largely because of its greater bulk and weight and because it is a continuing and fixed source of revenue to the carrier, is entitled to both considerate and expeditious handling. A Wisconsin newspaper publisher, after obtaining his second class mailing privilege, placed at the masthead of his paper the legend: "First-class matter mailed at second-class rates." Many another newspaper might rightfully claim the same distinction. C. S. Monitor.

BOOKS AND AUTHORS

His Humor Is International

Who is there who did not enjoy Jerome K. Jerome's "Passing of the Third Floor Back," either in the book or on the stage? Now we have his latest book, "Anthony John."

Anthony John, it seems, was a "dreamer," but curbed his vague impractical dreams of service to humanity and strove for success—like many another Anthony John, of a different name but with the same beautiful dreams.

He had the vision of aidas, and wealth and power were his. Then love came, and the impractical dreaming went deeper into the shadows of wealth and power that men call success. He spent money freely—throwing it away to ease humanity as a fountain scatters drops of water; but Anthony John found all his extravagant spending futile. He saw the slums grow larger. He found that money given as charity did not help the suffering and the poor. He saw that the spirit of the Christ was needed—that the world might be turned into Paradise if only men would give up their greeds and their passions and live for each other. And when Anthony John saw all that, it brought him to a great struggle. Should he give up his wealth and power and go to the poor of the world and give himself to them—give himself to the last atom of what real giving means? Read the book to know what Anthony John did. You will find in the reading a beauty of style and an arresting dignity, a powerful theme and a depth of emotion that the "usual" novel doesn't possess.

George Kibbe Turner

George Kibbe Turner started his literary career when he first came out of college. He joined the staff of the Springfield Republican at a very modest salary. His next step was to the Black Cat, in that day a thin little magazine which printed surprisingly interesting stories.

Then one day, as the phrase is, but quite different in fact, Mr. Turner wrote a novel for McClure's Magazine. It had a New England setting, and a political angle, and it received wide and important comment. Thereafter for nine years Mr. Turner was one of the literary staff of McClure's Magazine and he wrote both articles and fiction on a great variety of subjects.

Mr. Turner is the author of many books, short stories and articles, but "Hagar's Hoard," a story of the yellow fever epidemic in Memphis, Tenn., filled with fact and dramatic incident, and "White Shoulders" are guaranteed to keep Mr. Turner conspicuously to the front in our literature.

In the "Birth Stories" the husband is drawn as only a man keen in understanding of men could picture him. The side of marriage that Mr. Turner presents in this story is novel and at the same time universally appealing.

Something About Block Printing
We are indebted to an Englishman, John Hewson, for the introduction of block printing of fabrics; he coming to America in response to an invitation from Benjamin Franklin. Roller printing—printing designs on textiles with rollers—was invented in 1770 by a Scotchman, Thomas Bell. Today in America, with modern machinery, which one of our modern mills prints textiles. Crepe de chine is today printed in reproductions of old East Indian designs and in the "germ of life" motif, symbolic of their religious belief; also in Persian paisley patterns, with all the glowing color and elaboration of design which characterize the hand-woven shawls of India and hand-blocked muslins of Persia.

Still, They Can Both Talk
Publication of the Commoner has ceased. Inability of either William Jennings Bryan or the Governor, Charles W. Bryan, to give the paper personal attention is the reason given. The paper was founded as a weekly nomination for the presidency. When Mr. Bryan was appointed secretary of state in the first Wilson administration, it was changed to a monthly. From the first, Charles W. Bryan has had charge of the publication work; the editorials being written by his brother.

Discontinuance of the organ does not mean that the elder Bryan will retire from the political field. In the last issue he says: "I shall continue to follow all the lines of work in which I have been engaged—I cannot in good faith abandon any of the movements with which I am connected because I believe them all vitally important to the country."

They Have Built a Better One
Old-time theater-goers in Seattle sighed in reminiscence and regret when the work of transforming the old Grand Opera House there into a garage and machine shop began recently. The building, erected in the late '90's, was partially wrecked by fire in 1916 and has remained unused since that time.

Hailed as one of the finest theaters on the Pacific coast, the Grand Opera House opened early in 1900 with a production of "Ship Ahoy," by the Tivoli Opera Company of San Francisco. For years it was the only "legitimate" theater in the city and many of the famous actors and actresses of the day trod its boards. Sarah Bernhardt made her first appearance here in 1905. De Pachmann, Paderewski, Nordica and many more of the great musicians and vocalists played and sang there.

"Made in San Jose"
A distinction held probably by no other orchestra of equal size in the world is claimed by the San Jose Elks' orchestra which was heard in a concert at the State Teachers' College recently. Of the stringed instruments in the orchestra, six violins, one viola and one cello, were all made by Alfred Lannini, well known San Jose violin maker, and himself a member of the orchestra. Lannini has made over a hundred instruments so far. He was for a long time a student of the old Cremona violin-makers' methods at Milan, Italy.

Carmel Boys' Club Gives Social Affair

The club regaled another letter day last Wednesday, when the boys gave a real party, with real ice-cream, to the mother- and a couple of fathers—one to tell stories and the other to excavate the ice cream.

Glenn and Martin Leidig and Tom Warren were of the receiving party and Teddy and Dale Leidig were the ushers.

The guests were entertained with a cracker relay race, in which the boys had to eat, swallow and whistle between crackers.

The enthusiasm, proved their title as champion assimilators of dry matter.

The guests were edified by the interest the boys took in the scientific magazines and agreeably surprised at the honor roll, which registers $415 so far this year.

Before the abundant refreshments were served the formal meeting was held. Hart Rogers gave an interesting synopsis of the reading, which is part of the regular routine.

Dr. Burton told some amusing stories.

A gift of six chairs was acknowledged.

A donation for the chapel of the Carmel church was announced.

The evening closed with a lusty performance of the club yell.

Two of the charter members have called at Gray Gables recently, one bringing his wife, the other to tell of his work as a scout leader in Oak land.

HAND-BRAIDED RUGS ARE EASY TO MAKE

Hand-braided rugs of the old-fashioned variety are more easily made than many people think. The rugs are torn about three inches wide, and the edges turned in as they are braided. The braid is then coiled in the center and sewn flat, or, for the oval rugs, two parallel rows serve as a center. Always keep the rugs as flat as possible. The round rugs at the top of the sketch are blue and white with blue borders. The middle one is made of scraps of cretonne and colored gingham, and the lower one of tan and black stockings.

DO NOT USE TOO MUCH CRETONNE IN A ROOM

Cretonnes are good, but do not overdo them is the advice of the interior decorators. In a room with a figured wall covering or a patterned rug, even a very attractive cretonne strikes a wrong note. The room shown in the sketch affords a very pleasing effect gained by using a chintz patterned paper hung in panels, white ruffled curtains and ivory woodwork and furniture. A taupe carpet covering the entire floor is a new touch.

Pardow Hooper was down from San Francisco last week-end. He got into the baseball game last Sunday.

A new source of income for the city of Carmel is the license tax paid by the Shell Oil Co., whose truck tanks are now delivering in this city.

Recent guests at Carmel Highlands Inn were C. F. Newman and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Vickery and daughter of Sydney, Australia.

"Cabbages and Kings" has lost one of its valued employees. Miss Lillian Andrews, for some months in the weaving department, has gone to Los Angeles.

John B. Jordan had old friends as guests at Pine Inn last week end. Mr. and Mrs. John W. Phillips of Oakland. Mr. Phillips is an officer of the Central Bank.

Slowly and surely the new Hicks home on Junipero street is nearing completion. It will be mid-summer, however, before this attractive nine-room residence is ready for occupancy.

A correspondent of the Pine Cone writes to call attention to the gradual decay and disappearance of oaks and pines on the Forest Theatre grounds. She suggests some method of saving the oaks. New pines should be planted.

The Carmel store of the Palace Drug Co. is now in new quarters in the Carmel Development Co. building. Everything is bright and new, and Tom Bickle has arranged the various departments for quick and convenient service. A feature is the music room.

About June 1 there will appear on the newsstands a new poetry and essay magazine to be published in San Francisco. The publisher will be W. F. Aberle and the editors are Ethel Duffy Turner and W. F. Aberle. The Wanderer is the name of the publication.

The Schweninger-Wilson-Van Riper party will be away at least four months. In addition to their stay at Papeete, Tahiti, where they will visit artist William Ritschel, thirty miles out at Moorea, they will go to Wellington, N. Z.; Sydney, Aus.; Fiji, Raratonga, Suva, the Solomons and Hawaii.

Two of the men connected with the Del Monte Properties Company best known to Carmelites have severed their connection with that corporation. Fred Purner, publicity man and sports promoter, has joined a San Francisco firm, and Eric Pedley, realtor and polo player, is in the real estate business in Los Angeles.

An interesting visitor in Carmel last week was Tom Ingersoll, secretary of the Los Angeles realty board. He is also secretary of the National Real Estate Association. He came originally from Minneapolis, where he was well acquainted with Dr. and Mrs. C. A. McCollom. Just how well he knows the McColloms may be inferred from the fact that he did all his courting at their old home in Minneapolis.

All's well when you patronize the Mission Tea House—whether for lunch, tea or dinner. They are all perfectly satisfactory, so be considerate and bring your friends. adv.

Pine Needles

Mr. and Mrs. George J. Seideneck are the week's guests of Mrs. Charles Howland at Idlewild, down the coast.

These ad men just can't stay away from Carmel. Atlee F. Hunt of Oakland, who was here about month ago, was here for a few days last week.

Arthur Shand has severed his connection with the First National Company. He will shortly open up a realty office of his own in the Parkes building on Dolores street.

Frederick Macdonay of Pebble Beach, one of the Abalone League ballplayers, was married last Monday in San Jose. The bride is Miss Alice Dickie of New York.

Luther Whiteman, former Carmel resident and Mr. Whiteman and child are in Carmel for a few days' vacation. Mr. Whiteman has been in Los Angeles for the past years.

On Tuesday evening last the piano of Mrs. Paul T. Bruhl gave a most interesting piano recital at her studio in Pacific Grove. There was a large attendance of parents and friends.

Though the date is not set, it is learned that Congressman Arthur M. Free will return from Washington shortly, and will fulfill his speaking dates on the Monterey peninsula.

H. S. Howard, editor and publisher of the Berkeley Courier, and Mrs. Howard were here this week. They have arranged to occupy the James Short cottage here during all of June.

Mrs. Yvonne Navas is now residing in Berkeley, where she is attending the university, studying for an A. B. Her home here is occupied by Prof. and Mrs. Alexander Kaun until June 25th.

The annual meeting of the members and shareholders of the Carmel Club of Arts and Crafts takes place next Tuesday evening. A full attendance is desired. Members in arrears are not eligible to vote.

Among the week's guests at La Playa were Prof. Jack Lowenberg of the University of California and Dr. Newman K. Smith, Edinburgh philosopher. The latter is on his way home, after delivering a series of lectures in several American universities.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Bechdolt have returned from their month's auto trip through Arizona and New Mexico. They had a wonderful time, and Mr. Bechdolt picked up a vast quantity of material for his forthcoming series of stories.

The Dummage plumbing shop on the rear of a Dolores street lot near Ocean avenue, has been moved to the sidewalk line and is being made into a store. This block will eventually be all business places.

Sojourners here for two months are Mrs. G. E. Branch and her mother, Mrs. Hudson. Professor Branch, of the chemistry department of the University of California, is of the faculty of the summer session.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Poingdestre, having rented their residence here, will leave June 1st for a month's stay in San Francisco, after which they will sojourn at a northern California resort during July and August.

Mrs. G. H. Yates and Miss Louise Couger have returned from their dog judging in San Francisco. While away Miss Couger motored to Santa Rosa with Mrs. L. J. Dobbins and Miss Ella Thomas of Monterey.

Some time this month Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Covington will leave for Evanston, Ill., to visit their daughter. Next month they will visit at Princeton, N. J., where their son, Wells, will graduate from the university.

Reading Circle

The special meeting of the Reading Circle, with music, planned for Monday, May 14, has been changed to Tuesday, May 15.

"Little Dorrit" having been finished, the circle will next take up "Mr. Prohack," by Arnold Bennett. A cordial invitation is extended to all interested. Gray Gables, Monday, 8 p. m., beginning June 4.

High School Girls' Tea

A large number of Carmel girls, pupils of the Monterey high school, attended the senior tea at the House of the Four Winds in Monterey on Thursday afternoon, given by Helen Wright and Eloy Treat. Among those present, besides the Monterey girls, were Jean Taylor, Margaret Gillett, Louise Prince, Dorothy Cone, Betty and Alice Greene, Christine Burton, Constance Heron, Christine and Beryl Otis, Fay Murphy, Myrtle Arne, Phyllis Overstreet, Margaret Clute, Helen Bailey.

Prize Awards Made

The Pacific Grove library trustees have established a custom whereby the high school pupils of that city are given the opportunity to write an essay of some phase of activity in the public library each year. This year the pupils wrote on "My Favorite Shelf in the Public Library," and after reading about twenty-five essays the judges decided upon the following prize winners: Frank Work, Erhard Roslund, Ruth Doney and Benard Mossman.

Women a Source of Information.

I wish I had held more conversations with women. For then they would have informed me of many things I should never have heard of from men. —Napoleon.

New Monterey Mayor

Inducted Into Office

Benjamin F. Wright has assumed his duties as mayor of Monterey. His right to occupy the position is questioned by a group of electors who have begun an ouster action in the superior court, based upon election irregularities. An action has also been filed against Councilman William H. Faringhy's eligibility because of alleged violation of laws relating to qualified electors.
